A Big Day.

Yesterday was a great day for sound money in Wheeling. Speeches from such men as Senator Frye, Senator Elkins and Mr. A. W. Campbell were enough to make the day memorable The speeches were from men of deep thought and wide experience, and they rang like so many blows on an anvil. The speakers treated the public questions of the day as business questions and the ade them so plain that no body who neard them could fail to un-derstand. Instead of appeals to passion and prejudice, as the people get from the free silver—free trade side, there was a calm appeal to reason and patriotism. No such speeches can come from the

Bryan side. It lacks the raw mater-

Recent Coinage of Dollars An Intelligencer reader desires to know the number of standard silver dol-lars coined in recent years. The following from the official record may serve his purpose; Standard twice as many aliver dollars were coined as in all the history of the country from the beginning down to 1873.

If somebody rises to remark that this does not look like "striking down" silver. he will be talking a very good article of common sense. The fact is that the charge that silver was "struck down" is the merest blather of the silver trust and the silver trust politicians. It has no support whatever in the history of the country.

Still They Come.

Colonel William R. Morrison, who is something of a Democrat himself, is out against Bryan and Altgeld. Colonel Morrison is one of the last men to be classed as an "assistant Republican." but he is so firm in his Democracy that he will have nothing to do with Bryanism and Altgeldism. He understands well what both Isms mean.

As a citizen of Illinois he has reason to know what Altgeldism is as applied to a state. He turns from it in horror as a thing to be applied to the United States. Colonel Morrison has a large following in Illinois and throughout the west, and the stand he has taken will have its influence on Democras who have confidence in his leadership.

Tom Watson is only one of the thorns in the Bryan flesh. There are others.

The Castle Case.

The arrest of the Castles in London's something not to be complained of, but the magistrate who has handled the case has been unnecessarily harsh. There was no probability that the American would run away and everything points to the insanity of Mrs. Castle.

diseased mind. All the same there is such a mental disorder as kleptomania. and where the presumption is that it exists it is not fair to treat the diseased one with more harshness than a professional criminal would receive.

The magistrate is said to dislike Amerleans. This may account for his course

Now it is fusion that engages the at-tention of the Popocrats. Before long it will be confusion.

The Free Columne of Lies,

Evidence thickens to show that talent of various kinds and degrees is at work manufacturing lies to be used at the eleventh bour to injure the cause for which Major McKinley stands. In this line is a letter purporting to have been written by Major McKinley in 1820, in which he threatened to defeat certain pension legislation if he could,

If the proposed legislation were bad it would have been the duty of every mem per of Congress to oppose it, and that Major McKinley would have done. But Major McKinley did not write this letter, It was forged. The Republican national committee had a chance to keep it from the public by paying hish money. Otherwise it was to be made public. The committee wisely paid nothing and now gives the letter to the world.

That is the way to treat blackmailers. The next time that lie factory will offer its wares in another market.

To-day Wheeling shakes hands with Parkersburg. It will be a great time for visitors and hosts.

The Forgery Mill Running.

Now comes Mr. Presiey, of Boston, and denies that Mr. Hanna said to him that in the event of the election of Mc Kinley the army would be increased to 250,000 men.

The purpose of the army cock-and-bull story was to prejudice working men against McKinley, for the Popocrats take it for granted that every working man is a rioter at heart and awaits only an opportunity to break out against the laws of his country. In 1880 the Democratic committee put out the forged Morey letter in the hope of defeating General Garfield. The new hands at the bellows seem to have forgotten how that thing kicked back.

They have started up a forgery millabout the only kind of mill they have started up-and we may expect to see it running double turn until election day,

The turn-out of Republican business men yesterday surprised everybody by bringing out twice as many men as were expected. This demonstration means something. Business men as well as wage-earners and farmers are awake this year. They will not have to be hauled to the polls with a yoke of oxen to the man.

Tom Watson has his grip on things down in Georgia, at least enough to worry the Bryan managers sick. He is supporting Bryan, but on condition that he has some support himself. There is fun enough in the situation to make Tom chuckle over it.

To-morrow afternoon Mr. Perry Bel mont, of New York, speaks in the Opera House. Mr. Belmont is a Democrat who does not wish to employ Mr. Bryan as an advance agent of adversity. He is a good talker and worth hearing.

Senator Frye's presentation of the tariff question is an artistic performance of rare force. His illustrations are so telling that if he gave nothing else he would cover the ground and close the controversy.

A few months ago Mr. Bryan thought his destiny pointed to the theatrical line. Now he thinks it points to the white After election day Mr. Bryan will be at liberty to look up some more

And so Mark Hanna is having his wn sweet will with the wheat market. Isn't he also kicking things around in the silver market? Hanna is a very busy and very capable man.

The Morrison blow falls on the Bryan-Altgeld combination in Illinois at a time when that combination has little of the breath of life left in it. It is hard lines but so it goes.

BRYAN AND WAGE-WORKERS.

Thing-His Dishonest Propositions In an interview in the Pittsburgh Dispatch Andrew Carnegie says: "But the most remarkable sight 1

"But the most remarkable sight 1 have seen is that of several men in our works who have been pelnted out to men in favor of Mr. Bryan for the presidency. I can understand how a farmer can be led away by the silver nonsense, when he is told that he would sell his wheat and other products abroad for gold which would be worth here two dollars for one of silver, and that he could buy his labor in one of the cheap silver dollars and have the other to spare for himself.

"But I cannot find a reason—much as I have tried—why a workingman receiving wages should wish to be paid in silver dollars rather than in gold ones.

"No one pretends that anything better than a gold dollar can be made, and no one deales that there is some risk of the silver dollar never being worth more than half.

"There is nother thing I cannot un-than half,

"There is another thing I cannot un-

Than hait.

"There is another thing I cannot understand, and that is, why a self-respecting, Independent American working, man can vote for a man who has insulted every workingman in the land, in addition to proving himself a man destitute of all moral principles.

"Mr. Bryan has advised workingmen to walk for McKinley, talk for McKinley, war McKinley, talk for McKinley, war McKinley, badges, while all the time intending to vote for him (Bryan). If Mr. Bryan were an honorable man he would not wish to be voted for by men capable of such dishonor. Mr. Bryan does not know American workingmen. He has never had anything to do with them. He considers them a race of cowardly hypocrites, capable of such a despleable action as he halviess. He treats them as if they were coursels and obests. It his here them a race of cowardly hypocries, capable of such a despicable action as he halvises. He treats them as if they were cowards and cheata. I think a man capable of advising such despicable conduct quite capable of performing it himself.

"There is no necessity for American workingmen concealing their sentiments; every workingman is a free man; every employer thinks more of a man in his service who has the courage of this convictions. They are, not. cowardly sneaks, as Mr. Bryan supposes. I hope they will resent this insult. I am sure they will if they think over it."

"Mr. Carnegie, if silver will enable you to pay labor one-half present wages, why are you not in favor of allver?"

"It is of no advantage to an employer to be able to pay his workmen with silver dollars, if every employer, is able to do so. Then all employers are relatively in the same position as before. The change from gold to silver would precito the insanity of Mrs. Castle.

It is easy to say that the husband's money and their social position make the difference between roguery and a difference between ro cerns to lose millions. Every manufacturing establishment that runs half time loses heavily. Besides, a change to silver would render it doubtful whether his customers who owe him could pay him promptly; confidence would be destroyed all over the business world and throughout the banks, and no employer would feel sure that he could save his property. Even the strongest concerns would be shaken.

"Employers also know that history teaches there never was debased money accompanied by prosperity. Debasing is no new thing, it is a very old tick. Money was debased before the time of Christ, and has been debased since, and always with this result; that it has reduced the earnings of labor and of employers alike. The employer wants steady, safe, active business and this is what is best for the employes also. He does not want speculative, panicky times, for these are dangerous to him and to employes also. It is a great mistake to think that the interests of the employer and employed are not identical."

"Mr. Carnegie, don't you think Mr. Bryan is an honest man?"

complyer and employer are not identical."

"Mr. Carnegie, don't you think Mr. Bryan is an honest man?"

"I believe he is a small man, suddenly elevated to a position which he is totally unable to fill, therefore he descends to claptrap. His only resource is to appeal to the meanest passions of mankind.

"He represents to the eastern workingman that free coinage would keep silver at par with gold, and he represents to the western 2armer that his products would rise in price because he would sell them for gold abroad, and could pay labor at par with gold, and he represents to would therefore net more for his products.

"One of these statements want be ducts. "One of these statements must be false, and yet he makes them both, he is deceiving both parties, debased money would injure the workingman at once and directly; the farmer indirectly, and in due course," IS IT WORTH TRYING !

You, as a Wage-Earner, Willing to Gamble with Fate to Benefit the Owner of Silver Ballion 1

If a silver dollar contained silver worth 100 cents, then it would have 100 cents of purchasing power, just what cents of purchasing power, just what our present dollar has, and it would buy just as much as our present dollar buys, no more and no less. It would be just as hard to get, because it would be just as valuable.

But if sliver did not rise to $129 an ounce, then the purchasing power of a dollar would be reduced to just the value of the metal in a silver dollar. With the dollar containing sliver worth only fifty cents, the dollar would buy only one-half what our one hundred cent dollars of to-day will buy.

The wage-earner, therefore, has no chance to win and all chances to lose. If the best that Mr. Bryan promises him should happen—that is, if sliver should go up to $129 an ounce—the wage-earner would have exactly what he now has—a one hundred cent dollar;

now bas-a one hundred cent dollar:

wage-earner would have exactly what he now has—a one hundred cent dollar; no less and no more.

If the value of silver does not go to $129 an ounce the wage-earner will be defrauded by just the deficiency of purchashing power that there is in every dollar, that he receives.

With absolutely nothing to gain and everything to lose, is the wage-earner willing to gamble with fate? Is he willing to sacrifice his earning power for the sake of making an experiment for the benefit of owners of silver buillon? Will he run the risk of cutting his wages in half to find out whether it is possible for mine owners to sell their silver at $129 an ounce instead of 65 cents an ounce?—New York Press.

AMUSEMENTS.

The attraction at the Grand Opera House to-night and the remainder of the week, will be Al G. Field's new venture, "Darkest America," a combination of genuine colored performers which is made up of popular features that please the masses. Mr. Field, with his usual good judgment, has not only selected first class (alent, but has introduced a great variety of material of a novel and original character, and arranged the programme in an admirable manner. There is pienty of good dancing, much popular music, both vocal and instrumental, and many other features calculated to please, high class specialties, beautiful marches, etc. The company numbering eighty people, travel in their own train of palace cars. This is positively the only appearance in this city, and all levers of good shows should take advantage of the opportunity and see it.

The sensational comedy drama, The Brand of Cain, will be the attraction at the Grand the first three nights of next week and will be presented by the same company, using all the original special scenery the same as the Chicapo production, where the piece had a very successful two weeks engagement. The play is from the pen of Augustus Wolford, the scenes being laid in Spain and England, showing the most magnificent scenic and mechanical effects such as the "Diablo Chasm in the Mountains of Spain," "The Bandits Cave," "The Revolving Prison," and "The Explosion of the Quarry Power House," The most natural and realistic explosion ever produced on any stage.

"Ham" McNeely, for years river editor of the Evansville Journal, and one of its proprietors, died Tuesday afternoon. His health had been bad for two years, but his death was sudden and unexpected. He was one of the oldest newspaper men in Indiana.

The Island ferryboat, Charleston, which, enjoyed a career here in which the calm of prosperity was knocked out in short order by the storm of adversity, has been sold to William Noll, of Barcsville, W. Va., for $1,500. The oil excitement in Monzo county, Ohio, has created quite a heavy traffic across the river at Barcsville, so that finally the Charleston may wind up her career creditably.

Yesterday, Inspectors Clark and Thomas inspected the boilers and hull of the Wheeling and Stubenville packet F. A. Goebel. Her machinery was found to be in good condition, but the hull timber beneath one of her cylinders was found to be defective, and for this reason the Goebel has been ordered to the docks for repairs. She was on the docks at Pittsburgh three weeks ago, but in some way the defective timber escaped being attended to. A boat will be secured as soon as possible to take the Goebel's place (temporarily. The Goebel will be sent to Pittsburgh for the repairs.

Not since the halcyon days of steambouting on the Ohlo, before the railroads.

will be sent to Pittsburgs for the repairs.

Not since the halcyon days of steamboating on the Ohlo, before the railroads had made a Chinese puzzle of the map of the country, have there been so many packets plying in trades out of Wheeling Inding every week. Six make weekly trips, Hudson, Keystone State, Virginia, Kanawha, H. K. Bedford, Lorena; one twice a week, Ben Hur; two every other day, Lexington, Argand; three daily, Jewel, F. A. Goebel and Ruth. In the seven days forty landings are made at the Wheeling public landing, as follows: Sunday, 5; Monday, 4; Tuesday, 7; Wednesday, 5; Thursday, 8; Friday, 5; Saturday, 6. Some of the river people think there is not enough business centered at this port for so many boats, and that very soon two or three will drop by the wayside.

The Bay line steamer Ruth, which ran the Bittsburgh and Kanawha rivers.

"My Uncle From New York" is without doubt one of the best farcial comedies of a high and entertaining order before the public. It is clean and wholesome in action and dialogue, and presents a plot that is wholly natural and rapturously funny. The many incidents growing out of the unexpected arrival of "My Uncle" are the most laughable ever seen. The catchy, points, the startling situations and the never ceasing fun that is evoked by the Mountague company of players makes the presentation one of the best and funnest comedies of the day. Harry Montague as the uncle is en arapport with the part and gives it all those lights and shades which only the experienced actor can. Miss Duncan is vivacious and attractive and adds that dash that is just necessary to make the comedy sparkling. It will be at the Opera House next Tuesday and Wednesday, October 27 and 28.

The sensational comedy drama, The ting his plans into effect there is even less delay. Consequently when the Ruth was sent out on her first trip in the Wheeling and Sistersville trade at 3 p. m., yesterday, those who are acquainted with the hustling Irontonian were not surprised. The Ruth will leave every day, except Sunday, at 3 p. m., and arrive at Sistersville about 9 p. m. Returning she will leave Sistersville at 6 a. m., and arrive here at 1 p. m. This gives Sistersville people two hours in Wheeling for shopping and other business.
